3] Sell It!

OBJECTIVE: Sell It is one of those team-building games that are perfect for sales or marketing-oriented teams.

TIME: 30 minutes or more

TOOLS: Regular objects

PARTICIPANTS: 5-10 employees

HOW TO PLAY: To play this game, ask each team member to pick up any nearby object.

Explain to each participants that once they have the item in their hands, they will have to try to sell it to the other team members.

Set a 5-minute timer for members to prepare a pitch for why the other team members need to buy that item. They can set their own prices and have one minute to present a sales pitch and one minute to answer questions.

After everyone on the team has pitched, ask everyone to vote on which pitch they believe was the best of all. The pitch with the highest number of votes will win!

RESULT: Playing "Sell It" is a fun way for team members to showcase their presentation, negotiation, creative thinking, and communication skills. It can serve as a team-building exercise as well as a personal development activity.

4] Team Birthday Line Up

OBJECTIVE: This team-building game is intended to focus on improving the communication skills of team members.

TIME: 5-10 minutes

TOOLS: None

PARTICIPANTS: 7-10

HOW TO PLAY: Participants must stand side-by-side in line. You will then be asked to stand in a certain order of your birthdays (not considering the year). The challenge is that the members of the group cannot speak. However, you can use non-verbal acting, nudges, and other methods to determine the birthday of each other.

RESULT: This problem-solving game will encourage team members to communicate with everyone and also get to know more about each other. It also encourages people to tap into their creativity.

5] Blind Drawing

OBJECTIVE: A very popular and effective team-building exercise, this activity is good for small groups. It helps develop communication, interpretation, and leadership skills.

PRINCIPAL
SIET., TUMAKURU.

TOOLS: Pen, paper, and pictures. (To save paper, the person describing can have the picture on their phone)

TIME: 10-15 minutes

PARTICIPANTS: Multiple of 2

HOW TO PLAY: Pair people into groups of two and have them sitting back-to-back. Provide one person with a picture and the other with paper and a pen. Ask the person with the picture to describe it to their partner without actually saying what's in the picture.

For example, The picture shows a "dog eating ice cream." The person with the picture has to help her partner draw the picture without saying, "dog eating ice cream."

RESULT: It helps build leadership skills in the person who is directing the person with the pen and paper to draw the picture. The way she gives direction will result in how well the "artist" understands and draws the picture perfectly. It also depends on the communication between the team members and how clearly do they understand and interpret each other.
